FOR DADS

If you're honest with your children and don't try to put on airs;
If you share in all their interests—all their happiness and cares;
If you shelter without guarding—if you guide instead of lead,
Encourage without nagging—show your love in thought and deed;
If you show them life's small pleasures and are glad when they enjoy them;
If you help them find their talents and are proud when they employ them;
If you show by good example what is right and what is wrong,
If you teach them independence so they learn to get along;
If you see their need for freedom and yet help them realize that there's something warm and lasting in old-fashioned family ties;
If, in bringing up your children, you attempt to do your best,
For you know that you can do so much and life must teach the rest;
If you listen to their problems with an understanding heart,
And your influence goes with them even when you're far apart;
Then your children will respect you and in you they'll always see
Just the kind of fine and special Dad that you hoped and prayed you'd be!
